Day Trip to Hong Kong Island

Your day will start with a scenic drive to Hong Kong Island via the underwater harbour tunnel, exiting onto Hong Kong Island in Central which has long been known as the heart of Hong Kong. Head inland to Victoria Peak funicular railway. The Peak tram is an experience taking you up past Hong Kong Island's skyscrapers where at the top you'll have views stretching across skyscrapers and Victoria Harbour all the way to the green hills of the New Territories.

After, head further south of the Island past Repulse Bay, one of Hong Kong's most popular beaches before climbing aboard a sampan boat for a closer look at the famous Aberdeen typhoon shelters and their old-world fishing community. End aboard the famous Jumbo floating restaurant established in 1976 as a typhoon shelter shortly after World War II. In 1952 it was converted into the restaurant it is today and famous for its Cantonese and Dim Sum food.

After lunch head to Stanley village located on Hong Kong Island's south coast. Popular with locals, expats and tourists alike, you can find a selection of accessories, jewellery and souvenirs at reasonable prices hidden in the bazaar. Or if you prefer take time to explore the villages' bars and restaurants located along the picturesque waterfront. Murray House, a Victorian-era building built in the present-day business district of Central in 1846 as officers' quarters of the Murray Barracks can be found nearby, having been relocated to Stanley during the 2000s. Tin Hau Temple, one of the oldest temples in Hong Kong is also a short walk away.

After spending time in Stanley, you'll be taken back to your hotel in Kowloon for some time to freshen up and relax before being met by your guide. A short evening walk will take you to the harbour front where you can view the Symphony of Lights show. Set around the sparkling Victoria Harbour, discover the world's largest light and sound show where buildings will light up and flicker to music. After the show, your guide will walk you back to your hotel.
